'Mad Men' set decorator Amy Wells on the hunt in HomeGoods

"Mad Men" set decorator Amy Wells usually faces the same daunting task: creating authentic 1960s interiors for the hit AMC show, which has a devoted following of design enthusiasts. With consumers' budgets tight and bargain-hunting more important than ever, The Times posed a different challenge: Prowl the aisles of a discount store, separating the finds from the forget-its. Wells chose Home Goods, the furnishings spinoff of T.J. Maxx, which had opened a branch in Glendale. "I've schlepped out to the one in Glendora, and it was totally worth it," said Wells, a South Pasadena resident. "I'm looking forward to seeing what I can find a little closer to home." Tag along as she searches for items that might look good on TV — "or in my house," she said.
