In A Few Words...

Which talent would you most like to have?

I would love to be able to sing and be a blues singer.

What do you consider your greatest achievement?

My greatest achievement is that I became a set decorator in the first place and to have been fortunate to work as long as I have.

Which word or phrase do you most overuse?

"A little lower, center it, a little to the right, to the left, yea, that looks good." And also, "It'll be the best set ever."

What do you look for on the Craft Services table?

Anything that's fresh

Please name a benefit of being an SDSA member.

I have made some lifelong friends by being involved in the SDSA. Also, it is always great to see familiar faces when I'm in the prop houses, which makes me feel part of a community.

LIGHTSCAMERA ACTION!

A&E's SHIPPING WARS shoots at the Mannequin Gallery

Since 2004, Shelley Freeman and Walt Wilkey of the Mannequin Gallery have been quite the stars as Business Members of the Set Decorators Society of America and as the go-to place for any and all mannequin needs. Now Shelley and Mannequins Gallery are guest stars on the small screen in an episode of A&E Network's SHIPPING WARS, with Shelley introducing series co-star Dusty Davie to the groom he is to accompany.

Click here to see Shelley & the mannequins on SHIPPING WARS

Wild Back Story: Artist Suzanne Heintz married Chauncey - a mannequin. Ok, not really - it is an art project of hers. You see her family was putting a lot of pressure on her because she hadn't gotten married or had kids yet. Sooo, she got the idea...Long story short, she has been photographing her "family" all over the world.

Where Mannequin Gallery fits in: Suzanne then decided to "renew" her vows in Denver. Her real family will be there and, well, Chauncey needs friends and family too. Our mannequins! And...the mannequins had to get to Denver. That included Chauncey, the groom. So...SHIPPING WARS was included in this escapade.
